OUR SERVICES

Occupational therapy is an allied health profession devoted to helping individuals with regulatory, motor and behavioral problems learn how to perform purposeful activities. These activities include: playing, climbing, swinging, jumping, running, bike riding, drawing, cutting and writing, and many more. The child's occupation is to develop play, social, self care, gross, fine, sensory, visual and perceptual motor skills along with pre-academic and academic skills. Through activities the child's response to the environment becomes more organized and efficient.

The decision to pursue occupational therapy services for your child is a personal one. A pediatrician, teacher or parent may decide that it is time to act if there are concerns in one or more of the following areas:

- Difficulty with coordination either gross, fine or visual motor skills (i.e. difficulty holding and controlling a pencil as well as other children their age).
- Overly sensitive to touch, movement, sights or sounds. (i.e. difficulty sitting close to peers in circle time or standing in line at school).
- Under-reactivity to sensory stimulation (this may be exhibited by children who are constantly seeking input of various types).
- Unusually high or low activity level.
- Increasing frustration or feelings of failure.
- Difficulty with learning self care skills: dressing, fastening clothing or independent feeding.
- Poor organization of behavior.
- Difficulty making and keeping friends.
- Difficulty learning new and unfamiliar tasks.
- Difficulty with learning to write or complete school work or household chores in a timely manner.
